Continued Competency by Debra Turner, Board Chair

Now that we have completed our first renewal cycle requiring Continued Competency, the Board would like to thank everyone for their patience while we answered your many questions. It was quite a learning process for all of us.

We are currently working with the KPTA Continued Competency Committee to make the requirements easier to understand. In the next year, we anticipate a few minor revisions of 201 KAR 22:045. Once approved by the Legislative Review Committee, the updates will be available on the Board's website. A few items that have not changed that I want to highlight include:

1. For licensure renewal in 2009, the continued competency credits must be earned from April 1, 2007, through March 31, 2009.
2. Category 1 courses must (shall) be at least 3 contact hours in length. Courses less than 3 contact hours are not acceptable for Category 1.
3. A new Jurisprudence Exam is now available. All licensees, including new graduates, are required to take this exam before March 31, 2009. The board is excited about the new format. The exam is available on our website at <http://pt.ky.gov>, and it's FREE!!

Regulations Updates

There have been two recent changes to 201 KAR Chapter 22 Regulations.

201 KAR 22:020: Eliminating Temporary Permits for Examination Candidates

The Board will no longer offer temporary permits for new graduates.

201 KAR 22:040: Eliminating the Inactive Status

For those 90 licensees that went Inactive on March 31, 2007, you may remain on Inactive status until March 31, 2009, but at that time you will need to make a choice between an active or lapsed status. To become active, you will need to fulfill the continued competency requirement between 4/1/07 and 3/31/09.

See inside for more information on these regulations.

The following letter was posted on our Website regarding changes to two regulations: 201 KAR 22:020 and 201 KAR 22:040.

RE: Amendments: 201 KAR 22:020 - Eliminating Temporary Permits for Examination Candidates
201 KAR 22:040 - Eliminating Inactive Status

Go to <http://pt.ky.gov> to view these amendments

The Kentucky Board of Physical Therapy has received comments and concerns on the above proposed Administrative Regulation amendment and how this will affect the public, examination candidates, and employers. The Board has been discussing the elimination of the temporary permit for several years as a necessary step to ensure public protection. The Board has held off on this change until the exam process evolved to where it is today making temporary permits unnecessary.

The following outlines some of the reasons why the temporary permit is being eliminated:

1. Temporary Permit Creation. When temporary permits were established the licensure exam was given only 1-2 times per year on designated dates and at designated times; hence, there was a necessity to issue temporary permits, since new graduates had little control over when an exam could be taken, creating an unnecessary burden on the graduate who could not take and the pass the examination in order to obtain a permanent license to practice physical therapy. However, contemporary licensure examinations are now given on a daily basis by computer administration, and a new graduate has the ability to determine when he or she can sit for the exam—even as soon as formally completing the program.

A new graduate may complete the education program, and apply for licensure with the Board and the licensure examination in the same day. Then, he or she has 60 days from that time to schedule an appointment to sit for the national exam. Given that there are testing centers, such as Prometric, that are open six days per week and available nationally, sitting for the exam is now completely at the discretion of the new graduate. Once the exam is taken and passed, the Board receives the successful results the next business day and a license is subsequently issued within a business day or two.

In summary, a process that in years past used to take many months to complete (licensure application, exam scheduling, exam passage, exam results forwarded to the Board, and the issuance of a full license to practice physical therapy) now takes as little as a few days. The administrative burden on the applicant to apply for a temporary permit to practice while awaiting that licensure process, and the Board's time, expense, and delay in issuing and tracking a temporary permit is no longer necessary in this modern computer age of customer service. The Board seeks to lessen unnecessary regulation and decrease the costs of this physical therapy regulatory process.

2. Public Protection. If the exam candidate fails the exam (thus failing to demonstrate minimum competency to practice), it raises a concern that he or she should not have been practicing under a temporary permit at all. In 2006, there were 10 PTA exam candidates who failed the exam who had held temporary permits and practiced on the public under the authority of a temporary permit. Five of these PTA exam candidates never passed the exam and were thus never credentialed to practice as a physical therapist assistant. Each of the ten held temporary permits and practiced an average of 43 days before expiration of the temporary permit.
3. Potential Employer Liability. Hiring a new graduate with a temporary permit who begins to practice physical therapy, who then subsequently fails the exam and is no longer permitted to practice physical therapy as a clinician until passing the exam, jeopardizes the continuity of patient care and unnecessarily burdens the employer. Employers are then at great risk for malpractice lawsuits against the employing entity and the supervising physical therapist for alleged substandard physical therapy performed by a temporary permit holder who subsequently fails the physical therapy exam and may never obtain a credential to practice.

4. In 2006, there were a total of 53 PTA temporary certificates and 40 PT temporary licenses. The average time that these temporary permits were held was 36 consecutive days. With a total of 191 exam applicants in 2006, 48% were issued temporary permits and 18% failed the examination. Given the average time that a temporary permit was held by exam applicants and that less than half of applicants requested a temporary permit indicates that the new graduate is able to complete the licensure exam and receive a license to practice physical therapy in a reasonable amount of time thus making the temporary permit process unnecessary. The Board was strongly inclined to discontinue its temporary permit process when less than half of the applicants applied for one.

201 KAR 22:040 amendment relates to eliminating the Inactive Status license. The Board concludes that the limited number of persons with this Inactive Status and since continued competency is a requirement for licensure, a licensee should not be allowed an indefinite period of inactivity and be allowed to resume practice with a simple status change. Licensees who were granted an Inactive Status may apply for reinstatement of the license to practice physical therapy by following current regulation requirements as outlined in KRS Chapter 327.

Sincerely,

Troy L. Grubb, PT, Chair
KY Board of Physical Therapy

Online Renewal Success!

Online renewal was a success this year, but not without a few early glitches in the payment process. We are working with our contractor to eliminate this problem for the next renewal cycle. Thank you for your patience.

87% of the 2,419 physical therapists renewed online

83% of the 1,374 physical therapist assistants renewed online

For the 2009 renewal, let's make it 100%!

Did you know the Board decreased your renewal fee by $20.00 for the 2007 renewal year?

The following licensees/certificants did not renew their Kentucky credential and are lapsed effective March 31, 2007. In order to practice physical therapy in Kentucky, their credential must be reinstated according to 201 KAR 22:040.
